In the central U.S., it is not a question of if a damaging earthquake will happen, but a question of when. The Great Central U.S. ShakeOut is a simultaneous, multi-state earthquake drill, which is designed to teach people the appropriate action to take during an earthquake: “Drop, Cover, and Hold on”.

This simple, two-minute drill will take place on April 19, 2011 (April 28 outside of Indiana) at 10:15 a.m. EDT (9:15 a.m. CDT). More than two million people are now expected to practice this life saving activity.

There are many resources available to help your school participate, including drill manuals, videos, sample broadcasts, and more. Learn more and register for this event at:

Join the millions already participating by signing up today!

The ShakeOut is being organized by the following organizations:

American Red Cross
Central U.S. Earthquake Consortium
Federal Emergency Management Agency
Indiana Department of Homeland Security
U.S. Department of Education
U.S. Geological Survey and dozens of other partners
